

ASX COVID-19 Update

Easing of access restrictions to the ALC

18 June 2020

Current access restrictions to the Australian Liquidity Centre (ALC) will be eased for customers from Monday 22 June 2020.

As part of its management of the COVID-19 pandemic, ASX restricted access to the ALC on Friday 27 March. The decision was made to protect the health and safety of customers and employees, and to ensure the ongoing integrity and reliability of ASX operations.

We thank our customers and stakeholders for their understanding of the decision and for their support during these challenging times.

In line with recent Government changes to rules regarding public gatherings, ASX will ease some of its current restrictions and increase onsite access for customer operations in the ALC.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

Effective from Monday 22 June, ASX will allow ALC access to ALC customers during certain access windows throughout the week.

ASX will have a maximum visitor policy in place, limiting the total number of customers and contractors to 10 people on-site at any given time. This is to ensure the appropriate physical distancing restrictions can be maintained.

Customers will be required to follow building access procedures, including passing through a temperature monitoring station. Anyone recording an elevated temperature (i.e. above 37.5 degrees) will be asked not to enter the premises. In addition, ASX will have additional health, safety and cleaning protocols in place.

ASX requests that customers implement their own policies/protocols to ensure that anyone planning to come onsite during this time are well, not experiencing any cold or flu symptoms, not confirmed as, or being tested for COVID-19.

Window 1	00:00 – 09:00	00:00 – 06:00
